THE DEPUTY SECRETARY OF DEFENSE
WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

April 18, 1963

Dear Bill:

Since I wrote you on February 27, 1963, regarding intelligence for the ACDA, I have been called by John McCone on the same matter. In our discussion, I agreed with him that CIA should provide direct liaison with your agency for all intelligence. Such information as is initially available to Defense, State and other departments is also provided to CIA.

I believe CIA, as a central source, will be able to provide you with the various types of intelligence you require for your specific arms control and disarmament proposals.

Sincerely,

Honorable William C. Foster
Director
U. S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency
